

PARENT ADVOCATES

While it is generally accepted that children have basic rights, this should not mean that society can interfere with the parents' basic right to teach, discipline, and guide their children according to their own values and beliefs.

Arguments Supporting the Position:

-
-
-
-
-