

Preparing the Child for Out-of Home Placement

- Helps alleviate many of the child's anxieties and greatly reduce his stress
- Workers can use the preparation period to better assess the child's strengths and needs
- The child can better establish a supportive relationship with the Child Welfare Professional
- By providing supportive services to the child, chances of placement disruption can be lessened